Excerpt from Annual Report of the Trustees of the Wrentham State School: For the Year Ending November 30, 1920; Department of Mental Diseases

To His Excellency the Governor, the Legislature and the Department of Mental Diseases.

The trustees of the Wrentham State School respectfully submit their report for the fourteenth year of the institution, established by the Acts of 1906 for the care of the feeble-minded.

For information as to the continued growth of the school to the point where it has the control of 1,405 persons and as to the way it has discharged the important public duty laid upon it, as well as for indication of its policy of service to the public through its service to the individual case, we refer you to the report of the superintendent and the accompanying statistical statements. Particularly we would ask attention to the discussion of the relationship of the school's effort to community interests by the superintendent. His observations we adopt unqualifiedly as a part of our report.

Minimum requirements of such an institution as Wrentham are that it shall take good care of its property and of its charges, the former by economical management and productivity, the latter by proper clothing and feeding, comfortable housing, medical attention and keeping them from running away. We have a notion that for a considerable part of the public these items would answer for the maximum. That is to say, if these services were rendered, the institution would pass muster as a good one and worthy continued and liberal support.
